Two Winter Sun Observations — Hidden in Plain Sight

Two photographs of a bright winter sun over the park, captured during clear cold conditions. Light rays and lens reflections appear around the sun, while a faint cloud band near the horizon suggests subtle face-like shapes depending on the viewer’s perception. Part of the Clara Vale 'Hidden in Plain Sight' observational series documenting natural patterns and light effects in everyday scenes.